LOS ANGELES (KABC) -- A single dad returning home from a yearlong deployment in Afghanistan went school to school Friday to surprise each of his three kids for Valentine's Day.

First, California Army National Guard Chief Warrant Officer David Duran surprised his 14-year-old son at Nightingale Middle School in Lincoln Heights.

"It feels good. I want to spend the whole time with him, every minute," the teen said.

After surprising his son and getting a certificate of appreciation from school officials at Nightingale, it was time for Duran to give his next child, Nicole, a senior at Lincoln High School, the same heartwarming Valentine's Day gift.

"Oh my goodness, I am so happy you're home," she told her father through tears of joy. "I love him so much. I didn't expect him. I thought he was going to come Saturday. We were going to pick him up."

She said she couldn't have asked for a better Valentine's Day gift.

"It is a great gift to give her. It's her senior year, so this is a very special moment I was able to give her," her dad said.

Next, Duran went to his third and final school to greet his other daughter, fourth-grader Luz. She was filled with tears of joy as she threw her arms around her daddy.

"We always think of those reunions and I am just one of the fortunate ones," Duran said.

Check out the Colorado Blvd Flashing Crosswalks Video!

Did you miss last Saturday's RRFB ribbon-cutting? Check out this video and watch

Councilmember Huizar and Eagle Rock "take back the boulevard."

The RRFBs (flashing crosswalks) were installed by the City's Department of Transportation (LADOT) and funded by the Office of Councilmember Huizar and Measure R funds – they are the first such crosswalks in the Los Angeles Metro area.

Councilmember Huizar also provided funding for the construction of additional median space to accommodate two new Colorado Boulevard crosswalks that he helped add to the street. The RRFBs were added to the two new crosswalks at El Rio Avenue and Glen Iris Avenue. Another RRFB was added to an existing crosswalk at Hermosa Avenue.

These improvements are all a part of Councilmember Huizar's partnership with Take Back the Boulevard and their plan to make Colorado Boulevard safer, more pedestrian and bike friendly and better for business by adding bike lanes, median improvements, new crosswalks and flashing lights on Colorado Boulevard!

For more information, please contact Councilmember Huizar's Northeast Field Office at (323) 254-5295.
